Burgerhead is a kind and gentle monster. He loves to make new friends and he always tries to see the best in everyone. Mean Jerry, on the other hand, is a tough and grumpy monster. He doesn't like to make new friends and he is always looking for a fight. But despite their differences, Burgerhead and Mean Jerry become friends.

One day, Burgerhead and Mean Jerry are playing in the forest when they come across a group of mean monsters. The mean monsters start to bully Burgerhead and Mean Jerry, but Burgerhead stands up to them. He tells the mean monsters that they should be ashamed of themselves for bullying someone who is smaller and weaker than they are.

The mean monsters are surprised by Burgerhead's courage. They start to walk away, but then Mean Jerry steps forward. He tells the mean monsters that they should be ashamed of themselves for bullying someone who is different from them.

The mean monsters are even more surprised by Mean Jerry's courage. They start to walk away again, but this time they don't look back. Burgerhead and Mean Jerry have stood up to the bullies and they have shown that they are not afraid to be different.

Burgerhead and Mean Jerry are an unlikely pair, but they are the best of friends. They have shown that even the most different people can be friends if they are willing to look past their differences and see the good in each other.
