When Cam and his best friend Eric visit the zoo, they stumble upon a puzzling scene: the star attraction, a mischievous chimpanzee named Koko, has vanished without a trace. Determined to unravel the enigma, Cam activates his trusty memory camera, capturing every detail of the mystifying monkey house.

Guided by his exceptional memory, Cam meticulously pieces together a series of clues. Fingerprints on the bars, a peculiar note left behind, and unusual behavior from the other zoo animals all lead him towards the truth.

As Cam and Eric navigate the intricate jungle of the monkey house, they encounter a cast of fascinating characters: a wise old zookeeper, a secretive animal trainer, and a mysterious stranger who seems to have an uncanny connection to Koko.

Through clever deductions and a relentless pursuit of justice, Cam uncovers a web of secrets and hidden motives concealed within the seemingly innocent walls of the monkey house. With each clue he unravels, the truth draws closer, exposing the culprit behind Koko's disappearance.

In this thrilling mystery, David Adler weaves a captivating tale that both entertains and educates young readers. Cam Jansen's photographic memory becomes a powerful tool for solving crimes, while the engaging plot and vivid characters leave an unforgettable impression.
